CAVE-IN KILLED TWO BOYS.

Fatal Accident in an Excavation in Brooklyn.

Two boys lost their lives by the caving in of a sandbank in a vacant lot on Howard Avenue, between Bergen and Dean streets, Brooklyn, this afternoon at 2:55 o'clock.

They were Arthur Newhall, six years old, of 1843 Bergen street, and — Harris, five years old, of 1807 Bergen street.

These lads, Arthur's seven-year-old brother, Benny Newhall, were digging sand in an excavation 12 feet deep, which had been made by contractors, who had carted away a great deal of sand and had left the excavation unprotected by shoring up with timber.

The boys were not aware of their danger as they dug with their toy spades into the sides of the excavation, and when the earth began to crumble in upon them they did not hasten away.

The sides then fell in with a crash, completely burying Arthur Newhall and the Harris boy. Benny Newhall was only partially covered.

An alarm was sent to Engine 27 and Assistant Driver Henry Smith dug both boys out. They were unconscious, and despite the efforts of the ambulance surgeon from St. Mary's Hospital they could not be revived, and the bodies were removed to their respective homes.

The vacant lot was only 200 yards distant from where the lads lived. Benny Newhall was rescued practically uninjured.

MRS. FULFORD'S BURGLARS.

The Accused Admitted He Was a Thief, but There Was a Doubt.

A man who gave the fictitious names of Frederick Cappe, John Adams and Charles Robinson was arraigned this morning in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, charged by Margaret Fulford, 138 Clermont Avenue, with entering her house with intent to steal.

Officer Conroy, of the Twenty-first Precinct, testified to having seen the prisoner going into several houses.

When questioned by Justice Watson, Adams confessed to having served thirteen years in prison for various offenses. He had, he said, been a thief, but was trying to reform and live an honest life.

The defense attorney, in his summing up, said there was not sufficient evidence to hold him for trial, but that he considered him guilty.
